

VICE-CHANCELLOR'S MESSAGE

Dear Students,

It gives me immense pleasure to welcome the fresh batch of students who are exuberant and eager to join University of Sindh, Jamshoro. I know that your shining faces and young minds are ready to start an exciting journey of academic excellence and personal growth at one of Sindh's premier institutions of Higher Education. I hope and pray that this new phase of life will turn out to be rewarding and satisfying for you and for your parents. This University is fully capable of turning your dreams into reality with the cutting edge curricula and highly qualified and trained teachers.

The university is known for producing high quality graduates and for its service to the nation. It has become a place of excellence in Pakistan in higher education and scientific research. These are the results of sustained efforts the university has made over the years towards faculty development, and creativity and innovation.

University of Sindh provides best learning environment to its students and researchers. The university has state of the art laboratories for use by the students, faculty and industry. Our mission is to make research and development, and innovation a strategic priority for the university, as these are essential elements for the sustainable development and economic growth of the country. The university aims to strengthen its existing linkages with other academic institutions, government and industry, and to develop new linkages. It is my utmost desire to see this Alma Mater becoming a leading institution in the region and in the world.

It is hoped that you will be inspired by many fascinating facets of this Alma Mater and your grooming will take place in its peaceful academic environment. Together, we can stride confidently into the future by making ever-greater contributions in education, research, leadership and public engagement, locally and globally.

Welcome to the University of Sindh.
